

PROBING DEATH OF MAN FOUND IN SHALLOW CREEK

Detectives Begin Work After an Autopsy on Body of George E. Green.

Considerable suspicion has developed regarding the manner in which George E. Green, the broker's clerk, who was found drowned in a creek in Bronx Park shortly after 6 o'clock A. M. today, met his death. Following an autopsy by Coroner Schwannacker's physician, Dr. John E. Green, detectives in the Bronx are tracing the man's movements during last night.

Green was found lying with his face in the pebbles and sand of the creek bottom under a small rustic bridge. The water is so shallow that it did not cover his head. If his death was due to drowning he was suffocated in only six inches of water.

Miss Mary Savani, who lives at No. 370 Van Buren street, found the body.

and Dr. Reilly, of the Fordham Hospital, who was called by Policeman William Rave, said he thought the man must have been seized with an attack of vertigo while crossing the bridge and have fallen into the water, which is ten or twelve feet below.

The police at first said that Green was on his way to work from his home, No. 37 Taylor street, where he lives with his wife, but the man's brother-in-law, William V. Howell, said that Green had not been heard from since he left his office with the brokerage firm, De Copet & Doremus, No. 42 Broadway, last evening at 6 o'clock. This, coupled with the fact that the autopsy showed a wound under his right ear, made the coroner order an investigation.

"The wound," said Dr. Eiegelmann to a reporter for The Evening World, "is fresh, but it is small and might have been caused by striking the head on one of the stones in the creek, although he was lying face downward. He had a hemorrhage of the brain and in his struggles it is possible that he turned over in the water. There were no evidences of robbery or other violence about the body."

De Copet & Doremus are members of the New York Stock Exchange, and Green had worked for them for several years. At the offices it was said that he seemed a steady young man of good habits and a steady young man of good habits and a steady young man of good habits.

William V. Howell said that his brother-in-law was never subject to his of vertigo, and that he had no other ailment that would make him lose his balance, and he would do all in his power to discover the exact means of Green's death.

WAR ON TAFT MEN IN CONTEST FOR CHICAGO SEATS

Swarm of Proxies Brings Protest from Antis as Fight of Republicans Begins.

CHICAGO, June 5.—"All members of the Republican National Committee are requested to meet in this room now," loudly called William F. Stone, the sergeant-at-arms of the Republican National Convention, today from the doorway of the room at the Coliseum Annex, where it was arranged the evidence in the contests to come before the committee was to be heard.

The emphasis which Mr. Stone threw into the word "now" caused a score or more of the lagging members to hurry into the room, and the fight was on.

There were contests to be heard affecting 221 seats, the number having been diminished by six because of the failure of three contesting districts to qualify.

No sooner was the door closed shutting off the committee from the lobby, in which waited managers of candidates, attorneys for contestants, some of the contestants themselves, members of the press and others, than it was noised about that Frank H. Hitchcock, the Taft manager, had gone inside with the proxy of Solomon Luna, of New Mexico.

This discovery was followed by another—that Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, a Taft supporter, head the proxy of Henry D. McCoy, of the Philippines, and Arthur F. Statter, of the State of Washington, held the proxy of John G. Heiv, of Alaska. Mr. Statter is employed by the Taft campaign management.

The presence of so many Taft managers caused a noticeable stir in the camp of the anti-Taft men, and the protests were vehement a few minutes later when it was learned that Alexander McKenzie, the member from North Dakota, had ruled to appear. Charles C. Phelps showed up with the McKenzie proxy, and took a seat in the committee room. Inquiry disclosed the fact that Mr. Phelps also is an employee of the Taft headquarters and has just been transferred from Washington to Chicago.

Representative James Francis Burke, of Pittsburgh, manager for Senator Knox, and acting for all the anti-Taft interests, made a formal protest against Hitchcock, Statter and Phelps being permitted to sit as members of the committee. His protest was as follows: "We formally protest against being compelled to submit the merits of our contest to the Republican National Committee as at present constituted in this meeting."

"First—For the reason that Frank H. Hitchcock, who has been directly interested in the management of the campaign of one of the candidates whose cause is directly involved, is therefore disqualified to sit in judgment in this case."

"Second—Because the said Frank H. Hitchcock professes to represent the territory of New Mexico, of which territory he is not a resident nor a qualified voter, or the regular or properly chosen national committeeman from the said territory, and therefore not qualified to sit in this case."

The protest in regard to Phelps and Statter was identical, except that they were termed employees instead of managers of one of the candidates.

At 11:30 o'clock Secretary Dover, of the National Committee, announced that the protests against Hitchcock, Statter and Phelps had been laid on the table without division. It was the sentiment of the committee that it could not inquire into the validity of proxies regularly executed by a member of the National Committee.

The first taken up by the committee was that of the State of Alabama, the State at large, and district contests were consolidated, and two hours allowed to each side for the presentation of its evidence. It was announced by the committee that in other cases thirty minutes would be allowed in contests involving delegates at large, and fifteen minutes for contests concerning district delegates.

Extra Good News of Tomorrow's Desirable and Serviceable Things

New York's First Great Store

The old A. T. Stewart Store forms the foundation of this business. When it started it was only a store.

It was content to remain so until eleven years ago, when it took on the new life that has made it the trusted servant of the people in many ways unusual to a store.

Its powerful personality safeguards every transaction to be in the interest of the spenders of money both as to the representation of the quality of the goods and as to their real value.

The system of the store first introduced by this house ensures cheerful cash returns to purchasers changing their minds for their own reasons.

Buyers shall be sure of getting good value in all they buy here.
